ICREW NJ member and Past President Ann M. Waeger, has been recognized by the 2008 Chambers USA guide to leading U.S. law firms and attorneys as a leader in the practice areas of real estate and environmental law. Her firm, Farer Fersko, is also cited as a leader in these practice areas, as are several of Ms. Waeger's partners at the firm. In the guide, which is widely acknowledged and respected as an independent and objective professional benchmark within the legal community, it is noted that "Ann Waeger has a great national reputation, especially for environmental insurance and industrial and commercial real estate. Sources say 'she is extremely responsive to queries and very efficient.' She is 'definitely a force on the environmental front.' She is noted especially for her work on zoning and approvals." Ms. Waeger is a Director of our firm.

ICREW NJ member Susan C. Karp joined a prestigious panel of speakers addressing Site Remediation in New Jersey on July 9. Assistant DEP Commissioner Irene Kropp delivered a special address on the Department's new initiatives during the program, which was presented by Law Seminars International at the Newark Airport Marriott Hotel. Ms. Karp is a partner in our firm and a member of our Environmental & Brownfields practice group.

ICREW NJ member Maura Blau presented an update on current and pending Climate Change regulations and their impact on development in New Jersey at the 2008 Environmental Law Forum Weekend, which took place June 20-22 in Avalon, NJ. The program was co-sponsored by the New Jersey State Bar Association Environmental Law Section, New Jersey Institute for Continued Legal Education (ICLE) and the New Jersey Corporate Counsel Association. Ms. Blau is Counsel in our firm, and a member of our Environmental & Brownfields practice group.
