

Lowy's Moving Service Delivers 578 Pounds of Food

Lowy's Moving Service of Neptune has instituted "Move for Hunger" to help collect food for the FoodBank of Monmouth and Ocean Counties.

Keith Lowy, president of Lowy's Moving Service, recently delivered 578 pounds of food to the FoodBank. Customers are asked to donate food which will be moved by Lowy's to the FoodBank. There is no cost to the customer and in many cases, can alleviate the concern of the customer as to how to dispose of accumulated food items.

"I think most people want to do the right thing, but sometimes they just need a little help in doing it. That is where Move for Hunger comes in," Lowy said. "It's a great time to ask for donations because people are literally cleaning out everything to move."

Both Keith and his brother, Stephan, chief executive officer of Lowy's, have been involved in community service all of their lives. Their parents taught them early on how important it is to give back to the community. "Move for Hunger" is a direct result of that learning experience.

"The need to help those less fortunate, especially in these economic times, has never been so great," Lowy said.

The Lowys would like to see this program become a nationwide effort.

"We are proud of the effort of the Lowy Family and see "Move for Hunger" as the perfect example of people working together to fight hunger" said FoodBank Executive Director, Susan M. Kelly.

Lowy's Moving Service has been in business for 85 years and continues to be a family owned company
